MEMORANDUM

February 23, 2004

TO: DR. SHARON McGAVICK, President
Clover Park Technical College

FROM: W. HOWARD FISCHER
Senior Assistant Attorney General

SUBJECT: Use of Public Funds—Ballot Measures

The League of Education Voters' much discussed initiative drive is likely to generate substantial interest in the higher education community.

Enclosed please find our annual public on the prohibitions regarding the use of public funds, property, and resources to support or approve ballot propositions.

As President of WACTC, would you please share this with the presidents.

Thank you.

MEMORANDUM

February 13, 2004

TO: DR. JAMES SULTON, JR.
Executive Director
Higher Education Coordinating Board, 43430

FROM: W. HOWARD FISCHER
Senior Assistant Attorney General

SUBJECT: Use of Public Funds—Ballot Measures & Legislative Lobbying

This is a follow-up to our brief conversation after the GET meeting on the subject of the League of Education Voters initiative. It is unclear at the point whether the proposal will take the form of an initiative ballot proposition to the voters or as a bill in the Legislature.

Enclosed please find a copy of our annual publication on the prohibitions regarding the use of public funds, property, and resources to support or oppose ballot propositions. Also enclosed is a brief memo regarding lobbying activities by state agencies on bills pending in the Legislature.

At some point, it may be important to have a discussion with the Board members about their involvement in the League's proposal.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me. I look forward to meeting with you on February 23.

Thank you.

OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

FROM: JAMES K. PHARRIS
Senior Assistant Attorney General, 0100

SUBJECT: 2003 Election—Restrictions On Use Of Public Funds And Property To Support Or Oppose Candidates Or Ballot Measures

I. INTRODUCTION

The primary purpose of this memorandum is to remind everyone in the Attorney General's Office, and through them the client agencies, about the statutory prohibitions regarding the use of public funds and public property and facilities to support or oppose candidates or ballot propositions. The State will conduct an election in November 2003, in which statewide ballot measures will be submitted to the voters for their approval, in addition to filling several hundred local government offices. Furthermore, fundraising and campaigning has already begun for the 2004 election, which is a presidential election year and is also a year in which legislative, executive, and judicial offices will appear on the ballot. The law establishes clear limitations on the use of public funds or facilities for political campaign purposes.

II. STATUTORY PROHIBITION AGAINST USE OF PUBLIC FACILITIES TO SUPPORT OR OPPOSE BALLOT PROPOSITIONS

Since January 1, 1995, state agencies and employees have been governed by the state ethics law, codified as Chapter 42.52.RCW. RCW 42.52.010 defines "state officer" and "state employee" as follows:

(18) "State officer" means every person holding a position of public trust in or under an executive, legislative, or judicial office of the state. "State officer" includes judges of the superior court, judges of the court of appeals, justices of the supreme court, members of the legislature together with the secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of the house of representatives, holders of elective offices in the executive branch of state government, chief executive officers of state agencies, members of boards, commissions, or committees with authority over one or more state agencies or institutions, and employees of the state who are engaged in supervisory, policy-making, or policy-enforcing work. For the purposes of this chapter, "state officer" also includes any person exercising or undertaking to exercise the powers or functions of a state officer.

(19) "State employee" means an individual who is employed by an agency in any branch of state government. For purposes of this chapter, employees of the superior courts are not state officers or state employees.

Furthermore, subsection (3) of RCW 42.52.180 (enacted as Laws of 1994, ch. 154, § 118—the new State Ethics Law) specifically provides that "[a]s to state officers and employees, this section operates to the exclusion of RCW 42.17.130".

The net effect of these changes, then, is to make RCW 42.52.180 (and not RCW 42.17.130) the relevant statute for analyzing the extent to which state agencies and employees can use public facilities in connection with political campaigns, including campaigns on ballot propositions. The text of RCW 42.52.180 is attached to this memorandum. Several features of the 1994 act merit special attention.

First, RCW 42.52.180 provides that "[k]nowing acquiescence by a person with authority to direct, control, or influence the actions of the state officer or state employee using public resources in violation of this section constitutes a violation of this section". The evident purpose of this sentence is to create imputed liability for supervisors and others who "knowingly acquiesce" in a violation by a subordinate employee.

RCW 42.52.180 provides four types of exceptions to the general prohibition. The first of those four (RCW 42.52.180(2)(a)) relates to action taken by the members of an elected legislative body to express a collective decision supporting or opposing a ballot proposition. The second exception (RCW 42.52.180(2)(b)) provides that "it is not a violation of this section for an elected official to respond to an inquiry regarding a ballot proposition, to make incidental remarks concerning a ballot proposition in an official communication, or otherwise comment on a ballot proposition without an actual, measurable expenditure of public funds". The third exception (RCW 42.52.180(2)(c)) covers "[a]ctivities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office or agency". The fourth exception (RCW 42.52.180(d)) permits "[d]e minimis use of public facilities by state-wide elected officials and legislators incidental to the preparation or delivery of permissible communications, including written and verbal communications initiated by them of their views on ballot propositions that foreseeably may affect a matter that falls within their constitutional or statutory responsibilities".<sup>1</sup>

III. CASES, ATTORNEY GENERAL OPINIONS, AND INTERPRETIVE RULES

There is not yet a body of appellate case law interpreting RCW 42.52.180. However, the Executive Ethics Board is gradually developing a body of administrative interpretations. The Board's advisory opinions are available from the Board on request or through its website www.wa.gov/ethics/opinions.

Before the enactment of the current ethics code, state agencies were governed by RCW 42.17.130, which still applies to local governments. Because the language of RCW 42.52.180 is similar to RCW 42.17.130, the case law and opinions construing that statute may still be of relevance in construing the newer law.<sup>2</sup> There are three formal attorney general opinions construing RCW 42.17 generally, including RCW 42.17.130. Attorneys trying to interpret the current act should read them, but they should also check their analysis carefully against subsequent changes in the statutes interpreted.

The first of the three opinions is AGO 1973 No. 14, a long opinion answering some 23 questions about Initiative 276 (the initiative measure whose approval constituted the enactment of what is now RCW 42.17). This opinion is valuable primarily as a discussion of the historical background of the law. AGO 1975 No. 23 construes the language concerning "normal and regular conduct of the office or agency" and is worth reading since the same language appears in RCW 42.52.180. The new statute's additions clarify the law in this respect and are substantially in harmony with the analysis contained in AGO 1975 No. 23. Finally, AGO 1979 No. 3, construing RCW 42.17.130, concluded that the use of college or university facilities for political conventions, meetings, and candidates' forums did not violate the section, and prohibitions such as RCW 42.17.130 were not intended to cover "neutral public forum" uses of public property, such as the use of publicly owned facilities on a nondiscriminatory basis for political activities. Since the basic prohibition in RCW 42.52.180 is similar to that contained in RCW 42.17.130, this opinion is probably of continuing relevance in interpreting the new statute. My own view is that RCW 42.52.180, like the older statute, should be interpreted to allow the use of "neutral public forum" facilities when made available on a nondiscriminatory basis for political purposes.<sup>3</sup>

The Executive Ethics Board has adopted two rules interpreting RCW 42.52.180. WAC 292-110-020 defines the term "working hours". The definition of "facilities of an agency" in RCW 42.52.180(1) includes "employees of the agency during working hours", and the rule is intended to "flesh out" what the statutory phrase means. A second rule, WAC 292-110-030, defines

<sup>2</sup> There are only two reported cases construing RCW 42.17.130. King County Council v. Public Disclosure Commission, 93 Wn.2d 559, 561, 611 P.2d 1227 (1980), concluded that a county council could, as a matter of "normal and regular conduct", pass resolutions endorsing a ballot measure. City of Seattle v. State, 100 Wn.2d 232, 668 P.2d 1266 (1983), held that a city ordinance providing partial public funding for candidates in city elections did not violate RCW 42.17.130. However, subsequent legislation has rendered both of these opinions moot. Later amendments to RCW 42.17.130 explicitly permitted the conduct which the court allowed in King County Council, while the enactment of Initiative 134 (RCW 42.17.128) specifically prohibited local governments from using public funds to finance political campaigns for state or local office.

<sup>3</sup> Although AGO 1979 No. 3 does not explicitly discuss it, some public property constitutes traditional "public forum" areas in which citizens have a constitutional right to assemble and speak. The ethics statute was not intended to prohibit political rallies on the state capitol steps or parades on public streets.

the term "measurable expenditure". RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) permits elected officials to respond to an inquiry regarding a ballot proposition so long as there is no "actual, measurable expenditure of public funds"; the rule interprets this phrase. These two rules are attached to this memo.

The Executive Ethics Board has issued several advisory opinions on the use of public facilities for campaign purposes. One of the early ones, Advisory Opinion, No. 96-10, concluded that an elected official who headed a state agency could, as a matter of "normal and regular conduct", write a letter to agency employees at their home addresses explaining management policies, notwithstanding that the letter was written during an election campaign and that the letter might incidentally assist the official's re-election effort. The opinion was based on a peculiar set of facts, and anyone seeking to extend its reasoning to other fact patterns should be very cautious.

EEB Advisory Opinion 00-08 concerned the use of a state officer's or employee's title in connection with an election campaign. The opinion concluded that the title is not a "tangible facility of an agency" but that any use of a title "must be accompanied by a disclaimer that the officers or employees are speaking only for themselves and not for their agencies."

Two recent advisory opinions provide valuable guidance. EEB Advisory Opinion 02-02 answers a series of frequently asked questions on the use of state resources. Many of the key terms in RCW 42.52.180 are discussed. This opinion is geared to the personal use of public resources in general, and not specifically to the use of public resources for campaign purposes. EEB Advisory Opinion 02-04 discusses the use of state facilities, including electronic mail, to distribute newspaper articles and editorial opinions.

All of the Executive Ethics Board Advisory Opinions are available by mail from the Board, 2425 Bristol Court S.W., P.O. Box 40149, Olympia WA 98504-0149, or electronically at www.wa.gov/ethics/.

IV. ADDITIONAL COMMENTS ABOUT THE USE OF PUBLIC FACILITIES

This section of the memorandum is intended to draw together informal advice from a variety of sources (primarily generated in response to ballot measures in previous years), and to point to sources available for help in answering new questions which may arise. Although these answers are intended to be cautious and noncontroversial, the ethics laws are subject to interpretation like all legislation, and reasonable minds might differ on some details. This memo represents my own analysis and is not the official position of the office. Attorneys who are asked for advice about specific situations should check my answers against the current language of the statute, together with any current regulations and any existing or future interpretations of the statute by the agencies with jurisdiction.<sup>4</sup> Where there is disagreement, we should engage in further dialogue with an eye toward giving consistent advice.

<sup>4</sup> It would be wise to check for interpretive statements both by the Public Disclosure Commission (which continues to administer the provisions of RCW 42.17.130) and the relevant ethics board (see RCW 42.52.310-380).

As noted above, the Executive Ethics Board has adopted some interpretive rules concerning RCW 42.52.180.<sup>5</sup> Given the language of the statute itself, and factoring in cases and opinions interpreting the older statute (RCW 42.17.130) to some extent, it is possible to make some general statements about political activities under RCW 42.52.180. I think the following activities are quite clearly prohibited by RCW 42.52.180:

1. Using work hours to solicit signatures for ballot propositions, to raise funds for or against such propositions, or to organize campaigns for or against such propositions. The prohibition similarly bars the use of work time to campaign for or against a candidate for public office.
2. Using public property to campaign for or against a candidate or ballot proposition, except that "neutral forum" public property otherwise open to public use may be used for campaigning also.
3. Using public facilities—office space, electronic mail and data processing equipment, word processing and copying facilities, paper, supplies, and any other publicly owned property—for campaigns for or against a ballot proposition, or for or against a candidate, whether during or after work hours.
4. Displaying political material in or on publicly owned vehicles.
5. Displaying or distributing campaign material on publicly owned or operated premises (other than "neutral open forum" property or "personal space" property as discussed below).
6. Using public supplies, equipment, or facilities to print, mail, or otherwise produce or distribute materials supporting or opposing any candidate or ballot proposition.
7. Using publicly owned facilities to instruct or urge public employees to campaign for or against a candidate or ballot proposition on their own time, or stating or implying that their job performance might be judged according to their willingness to use their own time on a campaign.

<sup>5</sup> The law also contemplates individual agency rules on ethics matters. RCW 42.52.200. Many agencies, including the Attorney General's Office, have existing rules or policies which would be relevant to a particular inquiry.

8. Using public time and/or facilities to draft or pass a resolution by an appointed committee, board, or commission taking an official position for or against a pending ballot proposition, or endorsing or opposing a candidate for public office.<sup>6</sup>

Turning to the other side, the following appear to be conduct which is not prohibited by RCW 42.52.180:

1. An elected legislative body may collectively endorse or oppose a ballot measure if it meets the procedural requirements of RCW 42.52.180(2)(a).<sup>7</sup>
2. An elected official may make a statement in support of, or in opposition to, a ballot proposition at an open press conference or in response to a specific inquiry or may make incidental remarks concerning a ballot proposition in an official communication, so long as there is no actual, measurable expenditure of public funds. Again, note that this exception is limited to elected officials and does not, by its terms, extend to such "support" activity as using staff time or state facilities to prepare or distribute such a statement, at least if any "measurable expenditure" of public funds is involved.
3. Statewide elected officials and legislators may make de minimis use of public facilities to prepare or deliver communications giving their views on ballot propositions that foreseeably may affect a matter that falls within their constitutional or statutory responsibilities. Note that this exception is limited, again, to elected officials, and that it is related to the scope of each officer's official duties. Thus, the Governor and the members of the Legislature may have authority to make statements on more issues than, say, the Secretary of State or the Insurance Commissioner, whose scope of operation is more narrowly defined.
4. Unless it is inconsistent with some other applicable law or regulation, a public employee is not prohibited from campaigning for or against a ballot proposition on the employee's personal time.<sup>8</sup> It should be clear that the activity is the individual's personal choice and is not tied to job performance in any way. For state employees, the term "personal time"

<sup>6</sup> Note that RCW 42.52.180(2)(a) and (b) relate exclusively to elected officials and members of an elected legislative body. Exception (d), relating to "de minimis use of public facilities", also relates only to statewide elected officials and legislators. The only exception which is conceivably applicable to the activities to an appointed board or commission is exception (c), relating to "[a]ctivities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office or agency". In light of the specific exception for elected boards, it seems unlikely that appointed boards would be held to have the same power by implication. An analysis of this issue would require a careful look at the powers and duties of the particular board, committee, or agency in question.

<sup>7</sup> Note that the body must be both elected and legislative in nature.

<sup>8</sup> Some state employees whose work is funded with federal funds may be subject to the restrictions of the Hatch Act, a federal statute which is quite different in scope from the state ethics law. Certain employees who work jointly for more than one entity, or who work on contracts for other governments, might be subject to another jurisdiction's restrictions. It is beyond the scope of this memo to analyze federal law, or restrictions enacted by local governments or other states.

would ordinarily only include: (1) time outside the employee's normal work day; or (2) time when the employee is on vacation leave status or is using leave properly and lawfully accumulated and consistent with applicable statutes and personnel regulations; or (3) on unpaid leave status.<sup>9</sup> As noted earlier, the Executive Ethics Board has interpreted "working hours" in WAC 292-110-020.<sup>10</sup>

5. Public employees may contact fellow employees, away from the office, to circulate petitions or to solicit one another for funds, volunteers, and other activity for and against a ballot proposition, but only under circumstances which strictly avoid the use of office time and public property. Officers and employees would be wise to avoid soliciting subordinate employees because, under those circumstances, the subordinate employees may feel (no matter how carefully the campaign is conducted or the inquiry is phrased) that the superior is using improper influence.
6. Where public space is available on a nonrestricted basis to post signs, petitions, and advertisements, or to make speeches and hold meetings, public employees may use these "neutral public forum" spaces to express their own views, including their views on pending ballot propositions, assuming they are not otherwise violating RCW 42.52.180. However, it might well be a violation of the statute for public employees to use their positions to gain special advantage in the use of such "public forum" spaces, such as by signing up all the time for the use of a public auditorium before non-employees have had an equal opportunity to seek use of the same space, or by using their access to a public bulletin board to occupy the entire space with favored campaign material and leaving no space available for opposing material (or material relating to other matters).
7. Public agencies may conduct research into the likely results of the passage of a ballot proposition. Indeed, where the passage of the proposition would directly affect the agency's duties, an agency might be remiss for not conducting such research activity. However, it must be clear that the research is being conducted with the purpose of gathering the facts, is directly related to the ordinary conduct of the agency's business, and is not designed to support or oppose a candidate or ballot measure.<sup>11</sup> I recommend

<sup>9</sup> It is an obvious corollary that employees campaigning on their own personal time should avoid stating or implying that they are campaigning on behalf of the state or of a state agency.

<sup>10</sup> The rule recognizes that elected statewide officials do not have working hours as such. Thus, it is up to each elected officer to allocate time between campaigning and other activities. WAC 292-110-020(8). However, elected officers are still prohibited from using, or allowing the use of, staff time or office facilities for campaign purposes. Id.

<sup>11</sup> The Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) has wrestled with similar questions for many years, especially in the area of material generated by school districts concerning the possible effect of passage or defeat of a school district levy proposition. The principles developed by the PDC in response to these cases may prove instructive to other agencies. As of the writing of this memo, the PDC was awaiting a decision in a case challenging the constitutionality of RCW 42.17.130 and of the PDC's interpretation of this statute. The decision is expected to define the PDC's role as well as the substantive law concerning use of public facilities for political purposes. As noted earlier, the ethics boards are that agencies avoid conducting research or assembling statistical data which they expect to be requested for use in connection with a campaign, unless they are satisfied that they would have undertaken the same research or statistical efforts for independent reasons, such as planning for contingencies.

8. Public agencies and public employees may supply public records in response to requests made by the supporters or opponents of candidates or ballot propositions. An agency should treat all campaigns fairly and equitably in responding to requests for public records. This is especially sensitive and important, of course, in agencies headed by elected officers who are up for re-election in the near future.
9. Where two or more measures relate to the same subject, agencies may publish factual information showing the comparative effects of the measures, just as they could publish factual information showing the expected effect of a single measure. However, the agency may not use public facilities or property to favor one proposition over the other, any more than it could urge passage or defeat of both measures.

V. SOME HYPOTHETICAL QUESTIONS ABOUT CAMPAIGN ISSUES, AND SOME SUGGESTIONS ABOUT THE ANSWERS

Following are some hypothetical questions which might be asked about the ethics laws and some comments in response. Assistant attorneys general should remember that their role is to advise state agencies and not individual officers and employees. AAGs can tell individuals what the position of the Attorney General and the agency might be on an issue, but they should remind employees that our office does not provide personal advice and that our office would represent the agency and the public interest in any litigation. If there were a complaint filed with the Executive Ethics Board against a state employee, the employee should expect to secure personal counsel on the matter or appear without counsel. Employees have to make their own personal decisions concerning ethics law compliance. In questionable cases, they should think about conferring with private counsel.

1. I serve by appointment on a commission which governs a state agency. I serve part-time and receive no compensation except for attending commission meetings. The other day, I attended a fund raiser in support of an initiative measure which would, if approved, put the commission on a much more solid financial footing. I attended at my own expense and made a contribution to the campaign, which was properly reported. During the announcements, the announcer, specifically against my request, introduced me to the crowd as "Vice Chair of the X Commission". I quickly pointed out that I was attending as a private citizen. Was the use of my title a use of a "public facility or property"?

now developing their own case law and advisory opinions, and these also might provide answers to questions about public resources.

Unlike paper or ink or time, an officer's title cannot be measured or "expended" in any meaningful way. Knowledge that a particular candidate or ballot proposition is supported by "Commissioner X" may lend some weight or dignity to a campaign event or advertisement, or it may not. Thus, while it may be prudent to avoid using a position or title, primarily to avoid any implication that the agency or its officers are "officially" supporting a particular candidate or proposition, the mere identification of a person by stating his/her title or position would not seem to be a "use" of public facilities. However, it was wise for you to point out that you were attending in your private capacity in order to prevent any misunderstanding on that point.<sup>12</sup>

2. The head of my agency, Q, is an elected executive officer who is a candidate for public office again this year. A close friend wants to support Q both with financial contributions and volunteering time. I do not know the address or telephone number of Q's campaign office. Would it be all right to send an office voice-mail or e-mail to Q, passing along my friend's name and suggesting that Q forward this information to the campaign?

Remember that voice-mail and e-mail are both office property and facilities. While forwarding the information to Q seems a small thing, it involves both you and Q (Q involuntarily) in the use of office facilities for campaign activity. On your own time, take the steps to find out how to put your friend directly in touch with the campaign without using office facilities. If you don't want to be involved even that much, suggest that your friend contact the campaign directly. A third possibility would be to pass the information along using your own paper and stamp and Q's home address.

3. Everyone in my work unit is a strong opponent of Ballot Measure B. We have all been involved in the anti-B campaign, and we have been careful not to use either our state time or any agency facilities, such as paper, computers, or copy machines, in our campaign work. We need to have a campaign meeting next weekend, and the organizers are having trouble finding a place for the meeting. Our agency has a large conference room which is not ordinarily open to the public but which will not be in use during the weekend. Can we offer the use of the room for the campaign meeting?

Although office space is not "consumed" when used for a meeting (small amounts of heat and light notwithstanding), the use of a space not ordinarily available to the public leaves the definite impression that the campaign is benefiting from its use of a public space. The fact that your work unit is all involved in the campaign reinforces this unfortunate impression. In my opinion, using this particular space would violate RCW 42.52.180. If the conference room is generally open to the public, however, and is scheduled for the campaign on the same basis as anyone else could schedule it, the answer might be different. It still might be prudent to have the meeting somewhere else, just to avoid any question about misuse of public facilities.

4. I am the regional office manager for a state agency and I supervise about 50 employees. My close friend D is running for state senator. May I invite all my office to a Saturday morning event at my home where they can meet D and will have the opportunity to contribute to the campaign?

<sup>12</sup> As noted earlier, EEB Advisory Opinion 00-08 concluded that any employee's use of a title "must be accompanied by a disclaimer" that the employee is not speaking for the agency.

Extreme caution is advised. For the obvious points first, avoid the use of office space, office paper, e-mail, voicemail, or any other office facility for the invitations. Employee mailing lists are also public facilities which should not be used for campaign purposes. Perhaps you know the phone numbers and addresses by heart, or can use publicly available sources such as telephone and e-mail directories to get the necessary information. Even then, remember that you supervise all of these employees. Will one or more misunderstand why they are invited to a campaign fund raiser at your home? Will they conclude, no matter how you protest otherwise, that they stand to gain your favor if they support D, or to lose your favor if they don't? Even if this is not strictly a violation of RCW 42.52.180, do you want to raise these issues?

5. My co-worker and I have strongly different political philosophies. During the last presidential election campaign, she wore a large button promoting a candidate I find repugnant, and she placed the candidate's picture in her workstation next to the pictures of her husband and her cat. Would it be appropriate for me to ask our supervisor to ban such overt displays this year?

Ethical and policy considerations must always be balanced against free speech rights and the legitimate interest of any employee in expressing her views and in arranging her personal space. The courts and the ethics agencies have recognized that campaign buttons on clothing are a personal expression and do not violate the ethics statute.<sup>13</sup> The use of personal assigned space in a workstation probably meets the same requirement. The answer might be different if an employee were using publicly visible space, such as a wall, window, or reception desk, which could leave the impression that the campaign is favored by the agency or its leadership and is more than one employee's personal choice.

6. Initiative J would, if approved by the people, repeal the tax that supports 90% of my agency's activities. The Legislature might replace some of the money if the tax were repealed, but it is virtually certain that our agency's budget would be severely reduced. Can we use staff time and agency resources to assemble and publish a sheet that would just "show the facts"—that is, that enactment of Initiative J would effectively end all of the popular programs my agency is involved with?

As noted earlier, agencies can anticipate ballot measures by preparing contingency plans or by researching the possible effects of a measure for planning purposes. Your proposal goes considerably beyond that, though. The major flaw in your logic is to characterize as a "fact" your predicted outcome of the legislative session should the initiative be approved. The Legislature is legally free to replace the agency's funding, no matter how unlikely that outcome is. Therefore, it is simply not a "fact" that the agency's programs would be eliminated. It is only speculation. There seems little purpose for the agency to indulge in such speculation, except to influence the election results. Perhaps the agency could publish a true "fact sheet" which, for instance, lists the current programs administered by the agency with their current budget. Perhaps the material also could

<sup>13</sup> For reasons going beyond ethics, public agency employers have been held to have a limited right to restrict employees in some limited circumstances from wearing political buttons or engaging in political activities. Scott v. Meyers, 191 F.3d 82 (2d Cir. 1999) (transit authority could probably regulate wearing of political buttons by transit employees while in contact with public, but not at other times); Horstkoetter v. Dep't of Pub. Safety, 159 F.3d 1265 (10th Cir. 1998) (upheld statute prohibiting state troopers from displaying political signs on their personal property, but interpreted statute to not permit removal of signs placed by troopers' spouses on jointly owned property).

VI. CONCLUSION

In closing, it is important to remember that the public is generally very sensitive to the use of public facilities or property on ballot propositions and takes accusations of violations very seriously. Officers and employees who try to bump up against the "line" that divides lawful from unlawful conduct in this area may find, even if their conduct is eventually judged lawful, that their questionable activity has incited a public backlash against the very position they were attempting to advocate. As a result, public employees should walk a careful line to assure that the public is fully and adequately informed about the consequences of voting on a particular measure, without making unlawful use of public money or property to influence the result of the vote. State agencies and officers should consult closely with legal counsel on all activities relating to matters before the voters, and they should use utmost skill and care in expressing any comments on such matters.

Violations of RCW 42.52 by executive branch employees are now within the jurisdiction of the Executive Ethics Board. Employees with questions in this area should contact:

RCW 42.52.180

RCW 42.52.180 Use of public resources for political campaigns. (1) No state officer or state employee may use or authorize the use of facilities of an agency, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting a campaign for election of a person to an office or for the promotion of or opposition to a ballot proposition. Knowing acquiescence by a person with authority to direct, control, or influence the actions of the state officer or state employee using public resources in violation of this section constitutes a violation of this section. Facilities of an agency include, but are not limited to, use of stationery, postage, machines, and equipment; use of state employees of the agency during working hours, vehicles, office space, publications of the agency, and clientele lists of persons served by the agency.

(2) This section shall not apply to the following activities:

(a) Action taken at an open public meeting by members of an elected legislative body to express a collective decision, or to actually vote upon a motion, proposal, resolution, order, or ordinance, or to support or oppose a ballot proposition as long as (i) required notice of the meeting includes the title and number of the ballot proposition, and (ii) members of the legislative body or members of the public are afforded an approximately equal opportunity for the expression of an opposing view;

(b) A statement by an elected official in support of or in opposition to any ballot proposition at an open press conference or in response to a specific inquiry. For the purposes of this subsection, it is not a violation of this section for an elected official to respond to an inquiry regarding a ballot proposition, to make incidental remarks concerning a ballot proposition in an official communication, or otherwise comment on a ballot proposition without an actual, measurable expenditure of public funds. The ethics boards shall adopt by rule a definition of measurable expenditure;

(c) Activities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office or agency; and

(d) De minimis use of public facilities by state-wide elected officials and legislators incidental to the preparation or delivery of permissible communications, including written and verbal communications initiated by them of their views on ballot propositions that foreseeably may affect a matter that falls within their constitutional or statutory responsibilities.

(3) As to state officers and employees, this section operates to the exclusion of RCW 42.17.130. [1995 c 397 § 30; 1994 c 154 § 118.]

WAC 292-110-020

WAC 292-110-020 Working hours. (1) RCW 42.52.180(1) provides that no state officer or state employee may use or authorize the use of facilities of an agency, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting a campaign for election of a person to an office or for the promotion of or opposition to a ballot proposition. Facilities of an agency includes use of state officers or state employees during working hours. The purpose of the rule is to define the term "working hours" for officers and employees of the executive branch of state government. The prohibition in RCW 42.52.180(1) only applies during working hours. Nothing in RCW 42.52.180(1) or this rule prohibits a state officer or state employee from assisting in a campaign during non-working hours. An officer or employee who assists in a campaign during non-working hours may not use any facilities of an agency.

(2) Some state officers and state employees occupy positions that have fixed schedules with the same beginning and ending times. For officers and employees with fixed schedules, working hours are the hours between the starting and ending times of their positions. Officers and employees with fixed schedules may not assist in a campaign during these fixed working hours, unless they are on a lunch break under section four of this rule or on annual leave under section five of this rule.

Example 1: An employee works for an agency open to the public during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The employee is in a position with a fixed schedule of Monday through Friday 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 8:00 a.m. or after 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday or on Saturday or Sunday.

Example 2: An employee works for an agency open to the public during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Although the agency is open during the hours 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., the employee is in a position with a fixed schedule of Monday through Thursday 3:00 p.m. through 12:00 a.m. The employee's working hours are 3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 3:00 p.m. or after 12:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday or anytime on Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

(3) Some state officers and state employees occupy positions that do not have fixed schedules with the same starting and ending times. For officers and employees who do not have fixed schedules, working hours are defined as either:

(a) The hours set forth in any policy on working hours adopted by an agency. Agencies have flexibility in determining working hours for the officers and employees to meet their unique needs so long as the time considered to be working hours is clearly established. If an agency does not adopt a working hours policy, working hours shall be 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday when state agencies are generally open to the public; or

(b) The work schedule for an officer or employee approved by the agency, if it is different from the agency policy or, if the agency has not adopted a policy, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Example 3: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Although the agency is open to the public at these times, the work of the agency goes on twenty-four hours a day. The agency has adopted a working hours policy that divides working hours into three shifts: the day shift (8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.); swing shift (3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.) and midnight shift (12:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m.). An employee without a fixed schedule is assigned to the swing shift (3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.) Monday through Friday. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 3:00 p.m. and sometimes after 3:00 p.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 12:00 a.m. This employee's working hours are 3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 3:00 p.m. or after 12:00 a.m. Monday through Friday or on Saturday or Sunday.

Example 4: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 8:00 a.m. or after 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, or on Saturday or Sunday.

Example 5: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Although the agency is open to the public at these times, the work of the agency goes on twenty-four hours a day. The agency has adopted a working hours policy that divides working hours into three shifts: the day shift (8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.); swing shift (3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.) and midnight shift (12:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m.). An employee without a fixed schedule is assigned to the day shift (8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.) Monday through Friday. However, the agency has approved a different work schedule for this employee. Instead of the usual day shift of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., the employee works 7:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule the employee, sometimes comes to work before 7:00 a.m. and sometimes after 7:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 4:00 p.m. This employee's working hours are 7:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 7:00 a.m. or after 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, or on Saturday or Sunday.

(4) Working hours do not include state legal holidays unless the officer's or employee's work schedule requires the officer or employee to work on a state legal holiday.

(5) Working hours do not include the time approved and designated for an officer's or employee's lunch break. A lunch break is between 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m., unless the agency has designated a different time in a working hours policy or has approved a different lunch break as part of an officer's or employee's work schedule. If an officer or employee engages in campaign activity during the lunch break, the officer or employee may not make use of any of the facilities of the agency.

Example 6: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday with a lunch break between 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m. The employee may assist in a campaign during the employee's lunch break between 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m.

(6) Working hours do not include the time in official leave status if the leave has received advance documented or written authorization. An officer or employee on leave may assist in a campaign.

Example 7: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. On Friday the employee receives advance written authorization to be on leave for five days, Monday through Friday of the next week. The employee may assist in a campaign during this leave.

Example 8: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. In this agency employees without fixed schedules take leave during a month and then get written authorization for the leave at the end of the month. An employee takes leave

Monday through Friday and assists in a campaign. At the end of the month the employee obtains written authorization for the leave. The employee has assisted in a campaign during working hours since the employee did not obtain written authorization prior to taking leave to assist in a campaign. To assist in a campaign while on leave, the employee must obtain written authorization prior to going on leave.

(7) The definition of working hours also includes any time an officer or employee is actually working. For an officer or employee with a fixed schedule, working hours includes overtime when the officer or employee is working additional hours other than those in the fixed schedule. For an officer or employee without a fixed schedule, working hours include any time the officer or employee is working.

Example 9: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. On a Monday the employee works from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Even though the employee's working hours are 8:00 to 5:00 the time spent working between 5:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. are working hours because the employee is working for the agency during this time.

(8) The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of public lands, and the insurance commissioner are state officers in the executive branch subject to RCW 42.52.180. These officers are elected to office and hold office for a term of four years and until their successors are elected and qualified. Since these officers are elected to a term of office, they do not have working hours and may assist in a campaign at any time. However, if these officers do assist in a campaign, they may not make use of any facilities of an agency except as provided in RCW 42.52.180(2).

[Statutory Authority: RCW 42.52.180(1) and 42.52.360(2)(b). 96-22-030, § 292-110-020, filed 10/30/96, effective 11/30/96.]

WAC 292-110-030

WAC 292-110-030 Measurable expenditure. (1) RCW 42.52.180(1) provides that no state officer or state employee may use or authorize the use of facilities of an agency, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting a campaign for election of a person to an office or for the promotion of or opposition to a ballot proposition. Facilities of an agency include, but are not limited to, use of stationery, postage, machines and equipment, use of state employees during working hours, vehicles, office space, publications of the agency, and clientele lists of persons served by the agency.

(2) RCW 42.52.180(2) sets forth exceptions to the prohibition in RCW 42.52.180(1). The exceptions include a statement by an elected official in support of or in opposition to any ballot proposition at an open press conference or in response to a specific inquiry without an actual measurable expenditure of public funds (RCW 42.52.180(2)(b)); activities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office (RCW 42.52.180(2)(c)); and de minimis use of public facilities by state-wide elected officials incidental to the preparation or delivery of permissible communications initiated by the official regarding the official's views on a ballot proposition that may foreseeably affect a matter that falls within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities (RCW 42.52.180(2)(d)).

(3) Elected officials regularly expend public funds to respond to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions. RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) permits elected officials to respond to such inquiries regarding ballot propositions without an actual measurable expenditure of public funds. For purposes of RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) measurable expenditure means an expenditure or separately identifiable cost or specific portion of a cost incurred by the agency beyond the normal and regular expenditures or costs incurred by the agency in responding to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions.

Example 1: A state-wide elected official conducts a press conference in state office space. During the conference the official is asked about a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. The official replies to the question explaining his or her opinion on the ballot proposition and the reason for the opinion. It is not an ethical violation to reply to such an inquiry. The use of state office space, during the time the official answers the question about the ballot proposition, does not result in a measurable expenditure of public funds. This is because the expenditure or cost of the office space during this period is not a separately identifiable cost.

Example 2: A state-wide elected official receives a letter from a constituent asking for the official's position on a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. The official replies by letter explaining his or her opinion on the ballot proposition and the reason for the opinion. In the course of preparing the reply the official has the assistance of staff and uses office space, equipment, stationery and postage. It is not an ethical violation to reply to such an inquiry. There is no measurable expenditure of public funds because the agency has not incurred a cost beyond the normal and regular costs incurred by the agency in responding to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions.

Example 3: A state-wide elected official received a letter from a constituent asking for the official's position on a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. The official replies by letter explaining his or her opinion on the ballot proposition and the reason for the opinion. In the course of preparing the reply the official has the assistance of staff and uses office space, equipment, stationery and postage. The official sends copies of the reply to other individuals on the agency mailing list. This is an ethical violation. While it is permissible to reply to the constituent who inquired about the official's position (Example 1), it is improper to send copies of the response to others. There is a measurable expenditure of public funds because the cost of the paper and postage for the additional copies is a separate identifiable cost beyond the normal and regular costs incurred by the agency in responding to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions.

Example 4: A state-wide elected official writes a letter to the editor of a newspaper stating the official's position on a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. In the course of preparing the letter the official has the assistance of staff and uses office space, equipment, stationery and postage. This is an ethical violation. The official has used the facilities of the agency and the exception in RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) does not apply because the official is not responding to an inquiry.

[Statutory Authority: RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) and 42.52.360(2)(b). 96-22-029, § 292-110-030, filed 10/30/96, effective 11/30/96.]

MEMORANDUM

January 20, 2000

TO: SANDY WALL
Deputy Director
State Board for Community & Technical College, 42495

FROM: W. HOWARD FISCHER
Senior Assistant Attorney General

SUBJECT: Reporting Requirements for Agency Lobbying

It has come to my attention that there may be some confusion among the colleges regarding what types of contacts with the Legislature must be reported as lobbying.

The State Board's document "Guidelines for Public Disclosure Reporting Requirements" correctly states that all lobbying activities must be reported to the Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) on form L-5. Further, it correctly lists the following lobbying activities by colleges as authorized activities:

- Communicating with legislators at the member's request;
- Requesting necessary legislative action or appropriations through proper official channels;
- Providing information to legislators or staff on matters pertaining to official agency business; and
- Advocating the official position or interest of the agency.

RCW 42.17.190(2), (3).

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF WASHINGTON

Sandy Wall

January 20, 2000

Although the above referenced activities are considered lobbying, they need not be reported if the aggregate lobbying activities of all agency employees totals no more than four days or parts of days during any three month period, and, aggregate public funds spent on lobbying activities do not exceed fifteen dollars ($15) in any three month period. RCW 42.17.190(5)(d).

On the other hand, if either threshold is exceeded, colleges must report these activities to the PDC. As noted in the State Board's "Guidelines" notice, testifying at legislative committee hearings is considered reportable lobbying and counts against the 4-day/$15 threshold.

The following activities do not constitute lobbying and, therefore, need not be reported or counted toward the 4-day/$15 aggregate exemption:

- Telephone conversations or preparation of written correspondence;
- Preparation or adoption of the official policy position of the college;
- Recommendations or reports to the legislature in response to an express request for a specific study, recommendation, or report by a college on a particular subject.

RCW 42.17.190(5)(d)(v).

Therefore, a written or telephonic communication to a legislator at his or her request would not be considered lobbying. A face-to-face communication, regardless of whether the legislator requested it or not, would have to be counted against the 4-day aggregate.

I hope this helps to clarify the reporting requirements for colleges.

Guidelines for Public Disclosure Reporting Requirements

Annual Reporting of Financial Affairs

Community and technical college district and campus presidents must annually file a statement of financial affairs with the Public Disclosure Commission. The report is due between January 1 and April 15 for the preceding calendar year. (RCW 42.17.240 (1) and RCW 42.17.2401 (1))

Quarterly Reporting of Lobbying Activities

Each state agency must report quarterly to the Public Disclosure Commission all lobbying activity conducted by employees of the agency (PDC Form L-5). There is one report per agency (college) and if there was no lobbying, there is no report.

Lobbying is defined as attempting to influence the passage or defeat of any specific legislation by the state legislature. The lobbying actions by colleges are limited to:

- ♦ Communicating with legislators at the member's request;
- ♦ Requesting necessary legislative action or appropriations through proper official channels;
- ♦ Providing information to legislators or staff on matters pertaining to official agency business; and
- ♦ Advocating the official position or interest of the agency

Reportable lobbying: All in-person lobbying directed at legislators and their staff is reportable. This includes testifying at public hearings. If a legislator is on campus for an event (graduation, ribbon-cutting, etc.) none of that time needs to be considered as "lobbying." However, if a college president talks to a legislator at such an event about some specific legislation, then the 10 or 15 minutes needs to be reported, not the length of the entire event. Also, any non-public funds over $15 spent on behalf of legislators or legislative staff must be reported.

Nonreportable lobbying: No reporting is required for phone conversations with legislators or letters to legislators.

Public funds: Colleges are permitted to use public funds when: 1) communicating with state officeholders or employees on official agency business; and 2) advocating only the official position or interests of the agency. Colleges are expressly prohibited from spending public funds for gifts or campaign contributions. Public funds are any funds that are recorded on the financial records of the institution. Discretionary funds may be used when entertaining a legislator or legislative staff. Discretionary funds come from private donations.

Political Campaign-Related Activities of and at Colleges and Universities<sup>1</sup>

We summarize here “do’s” and “don’ts” on potential entanglements of the institutions and their personnel in campaigns for public office. The summary is not exhaustive and omits legal citations. It is based on judicial and IRS rulings under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code; and the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended, as well as Federal Election Commission regulations that apply to colleges and universities.

Additional state law requirements that govern campaigns for state and local office vary from state to state and are not addressed here. Also not specified here are the penalties for improper political activity by and at a college or university. They can include loss of the institution’s tax-exempt status, imposition of taxes on the institution and its responsible managers, and other risks, including federal or state government lawsuits, audits, and investigations.

We recommend that the institution’s counsel be consulted before proposed actions are taken in this area. This memorandum states general propositions, is not legal advice, and does not address the advisability as a matter of institutional policy of engaging in the activities identified below.

I. POTENTIAL ACTIVITIES OF OR ATTRIBUTABLE TO THE INSTITUTION

A. Illustrative permitted activities:

- Y1. Genuine curricular activities aimed at educating students with respect to the political process. (For example, the IRS approved a political science program in which, as part of a for-credit course, university students participated in several weeks of classroom work to learn about political campaign methods, and then were excused from classes for two weeks to participate in campaigns of their choice, without the university influencing which campaigns were chosen.)
- Y2. Partisan editorial activities of a student newspaper that is supported by a college or university. (For example, the IRS approved, on the ground that a university's educational purpose was advanced, making professors available as advisors to a student newspaper that published editorial opinions on political and legislative matters. The university also provided the newspaper financial support and office space.)
- Y3. Providing on an equal basis to all legally qualified candidates for a public office, and consistently within the limits imposed by Federal Communications Commission standards, access to air time on a university-owned radio station.
- Y4. Conducting institution-sponsored public forums to which all legally qualified candidates (or, if impractical, at least all candidates who meet certain objective criteria) for a public office (or for the nomination of a particular party) are invited and given equal access and opportunity to speak, if the format and content of the forum are presented in a neutral manner. If the institution chooses to invite candidates to speak individually, it must take steps to ensure that all such legally qualified candidates are invited, and that none are favored in relation to the activity. Ordinarily it is prudent to make an explicit statement as part of the introduction of the speaker that the institution does not support or oppose the candidate. Political fundraising at the event should be prohibited. The institution must make reasonable efforts to ensure that the appearances constitute speeches, question-and-answer sessions, or similar communications in an academic setting and are not conducted as campaign rallies or events.

- Y5. Certain “voter education” activities if related to the institution’s educational purpose. For example, annually preparing and making publicly available a compilation of voting records on major legislative issues that involve a wide range of topics, without political skew and without editorial opinion, is likely to be held permissible, particularly if the information is not widely distributed and is not geared to coincide with the election period.
- Y6. Non-partisan voter registration activities of certain charitable organizations have been approved, even when aimed at groups (such as urban voters, young people or minorities) likely to favor a certain political candidate or party; provided that the activities are not intended to target voters of a particular party or to help particular candidates; and provided further that particular geographic areas are not selected to favor any party or candidates.
- Y7. Circulating unbiased questionnaires to all candidates for an office, and tabulating and disseminating the results; provided that the questionnaires cover a broad range of subjects, and neither reflect political skew nor contain editorial opinion. As in other areas, counsel should be consulted on whether the proposed activity is consistent with the institution’s tax-exempt mission.
- Y8. Continuing usual and permissible lobbying and public policy education activities, within the constraints ordinarily applicable to such activities conducted by a college or university. This is a complex topic warranting fuller analysis and advice. Special caution is indicated with respect to heightened, different or targeted lobbying and public policy education activities conducted during a campaign season.
- Y9. Rearranging the academic calendar to permit students, faculty, and administrators to participate in the election process, if the rearrangement is made without reference to particular campaigns or political issues; provided that the recess is in substitution for another period that would have been free of curricular activity.
- Y10. Use of institutional facilities by established student groups for partisan political purposes, provided that such groups pay the usual and normal charge, if any, for use of institutional facilities by student groups. Fees usually are not required for traditional, on-campus student political clubs. (Generally, groups other than student groups should be charged.) Administrators and faculty should take special care in relation to any such proposed student activities, to avoid the appearance of institutional endorsement and to observe the other principles this memorandum describes. Independent institutions may as a matter of their own general policy decline to permit their facilities to be used for such purposes.

- Y11. Conducting training programs designed to increase public understanding of the electoral process or to encourage citizens to become involved in the process, provided such training is nonpartisan in nature and open to those traditionally interested in such activities regardless of party affiliation or candidate preference.
- Y12. Conducting public opinion polls with respect to issues (rather than candidates), provided that the questions are framed to be fair and neutral, accepted polling techniques are used, and the questions do not directly or indirectly concern records or positions of particular candidates or parties. With respect to such activities of faculty, the limitations should be addressed with due regard for academic freedom.
- Y13. Providing a hyperlink to the webpages, or other space on a university's website, for all legally qualified candidates for a public office as long as it is done in a manner that does not favor one candidate over another.
- Y14. Establishing a voluntary payroll deduction plan that would allow individual employees to direct a portion of their wages to the political action committees ("PACs") for their respective unions, provided that the university's activities with respect to the PAC are ministerial and simply involve transferring the funds earmarked by the employees to the PAC chosen by the employee, the university has absolutely no role in the management or governance of the PAC or any influence over the selection of candidates or political parties to be supported by the PAC, the university's name is not used or otherwise acknowledged in connection with any contributions made by the PAC to any candidates for public office, the university is reimbursed for costs associated with the plan, the university takes steps to ensure that no employees associate the PAC with the university, and the university does not allow employees to participate in PAC activities during work hours other than in the performance of the ministerial activities described above.

B. Illustrative prohibited (or in some instances, questionable) activities if undertaken by the institution or by an individual whose actions are attributable to the institution:

- N1. Categorically: “Participating” or “intervening” in any campaign of any candidate for public office (including candidates for local, state, and federal office).
- N2. Endorsing, expressly or impliedly, a candidate for public office.
Examples of implied endorsement are public statements at a college or university event by an official of the institution, praising a particular candidate in relation to the holding of public office, and a pattern of institutional activities in relation to or support of a particular candidate.
- N3. Providing mailing lists, use of office space, telephones, photocopying or other institutional facilities or support to a candidate, campaign, political party, political action committee (PAC) or the like free of charge. If mailing lists or facilities are sold or rented to a candidate or campaign, the items must be made available to all other viable candidates on the same terms and at fair market prices. Additionally, the institution should be prepared to show that it did not take the initiative in making the items available and that the sales or rentals are part of an ongoing pattern in which similar items are provided to unrelated, nonpolitical entities. Counsel should be consulted on the potential for taxation of revenues generated by such sales or rentals.
- N4. Coordinating institutional fund-raising with fund-raising of a candidate for public office, political party, PAC or the like.
- N5. Sponsoring events to advance the candidacy of particular candidates.
- N6. “Voter education” activities, such as those involving questionnaires, if confined to a narrow range of issues or skewed in favor of certain candidates or a political party. For example, the IRS has disapproved such activities that involved selected voting records of certain incumbents on a narrow range of issues (in that case, “land conservation”).
- N7. Voter registration activities that are similarly skewed. (See Y6, above.)

- N8. Reimbursing university officials for campaign contributions.
- N9. Publishing ratings of the candidates, particularly in situations where the ratings could be viewed as reflecting the views of the institution or institutional resources are used in connection with the preparation or publication of such ratings without reimbursement at the usual and normal charge.
- N10. Commenting on specific actions, statements or positions taken by candidates, including incumbents, in the course of their campaigns. The institution is not forbidden to comment on specific issues pertinent to its tax-exempt purposes, particularly if it has a track record of commenting on such issues in non-election years.
- N11. Promoting action (voting) with respect to issues that have become highly identified as dividing lines between the candidates. This does not bar the institution from commenting on issues critical to its tax-exempt purposes, if it has a track record of commenting on such issues in non-election years, but does bar encouragement of voting on one side of such issues.
- N12. Coordinating voter education activities with campaign events.
- N13. Providing a candidate a forum to promote his or her campaign, even if the forum is not intended to assist the candidate. (For example, the IRS has published a memorandum concluding that a charitable organization violated the prohibition on campaign intervention when the candidate solicited funds on the organization's behalf, because the content of the solicitation included campaign rhetoric).

II. POTENTIAL ACTIVITIES OF FACULTY, ADMINISTRATORS, AND OTHER EMPLOYEES OF THE INSTITUTION

A. Illustrative permitted activities:

- Y15. Members of the college or university community are entitled to participate or not, off-hours, as they see fit, in the election process; provided that speaking or acting in the name of the institution is prohibited except as described in this memorandum, provided they are not acting at the direction of an institutional official and provided that if the institution is mentioned as a means of introduction, it should be communicated that the opinions that are expressed are not the opinions of the college or university. (See also Y16 and N14, below.)

- Y16. A faculty member, administrator or other employee may, if permitted by institutional policies and procedures, engage in federal campaign-related activity that is (a) outside normal work hours; or (b) within ordinary work hours, if the time is made up within a reasonable period by devoting a comparable number of extra hours to work for the institution; (c) charged to vacation time to which the person is then entitled or occurs during a regular sabbatical leave; or (d) during a leave of absence without pay taken with the institution's approval. The institution should consult applicable state law concerning permitted volunteer activities by employees relating to campaigns for state or local office. Senior institutional officials (such as the president and the vice-president for governmental affairs) should ordinarily refrain from or otherwise limit such activity, as there is risk that such activity would be perceived as support or endorsement by the institution. (See also N15).

B. Illustrative prohibited (or questionable) activities:

- N14. Use of institutional letterhead in support of a candidate, political party, PAC or the like.
- N15. Public statements, oral or written, by institutional officials (such as the president and deans) in support of a candidate, political party, PAC or the like, where there is risk that the statements would be perceived as support or endorsement by the institution.
- N16. Use of message boards and forums affiliated with the institution's website to support particular candidates if the statements of the provider of the information can be reasonably attributed to the institution. A disclaimer that states that the opinions are neither the opinion of the institution nor sanctioned by the institution is recommended in those public discussion areas where the information could reasonably be attributed to the institution.

The foregoing is not exhaustive, and considerable judgment in the application of these principles is likely to be required.

OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

TO: CHRIS GREGOIRE
EXECUTIVE TEAM
MANAGEMENT TEAM

FROM: JAMES K. PHARRIS
Senior Assistant Attorney General, 0100

SUBJECT: 2003 Election—Restrictions On Use Of Public Funds And
Property To Support Or Oppose Candidates Or Ballot Measures

I. INTRODUCTION

The primary purpose of this memorandum is to remind everyone in the Attorney General's Office, and through them the client agencies, about the statutory prohibitions regarding the use of public funds and public property and facilities to support or oppose candidates or ballot propositions. The State will conduct an election in November 2003, in which statewide ballot measures will be submitted to the voters for their approval, in addition to filling several hundred local government offices. Furthermore, fundraising and campaigning has already begun for the 2004 election, which is a presidential election year and is also a year in which legislative, executive, and judicial offices will appear on the ballot. The law establishes clear limitations on the use of public funds or facilities for political campaign purposes.

II. STATUTORY PROHIBITION AGAINST USE OF PUBLIC FACILITIES TO SUPPORT OR OPPOSE BALLOT PROPOSITIONS

Since January 1, 1995, state agencies and employees have been governed by the state ethics law, codified as Chapter 42.52.RCW. RCW 42.52.010 defines "state officer" and "state employee" as follows:

(18) "State officer" means every person holding a position of public trust in or under an executive, legislative, or judicial office of the state. "State officer" includes judges of the superior court, judges of the court of appeals, justices of the supreme court, members of the legislature together with the secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of the house of representatives, holders of elective offices in the executive branch of state government, chief executive officers of state agencies, members of boards, commissions, or committees with authority over one or more state agencies or institutions, and employees of the state who are engaged in supervisory, policy-making, or policy-enforcing work. For the purposes of this chapter, "state officer" also includes any person exercising or undertaking to exercise the powers or functions of a state officer.

(19) "State employee" means an individual who is employed by an agency in any branch of state government. For purposes of this chapter, employees of the superior courts are not state officers or state employees.

Furthermore, subsection (3) of RCW 42.52.180 (enacted as Laws of 1994, ch. 154, § 118—the new State Ethics Law) specifically provides that "[a]s to state officers and employees, this section operates to the exclusion of RCW 42.17.130".

The net effect of these changes, then, is to make RCW 42.52.180 (and not RCW 42.17.130) the relevant statute for analyzing the extent to which state agencies and employees can use public facilities in connection with political campaigns, including campaigns on ballot propositions. The text of RCW 42.52.180 is attached to this memorandum. Several features of the 1994 act merit special attention.

First, RCW 42.52.180 provides that "[k]nowing acquiescence by a person with authority to direct, control, or influence the actions of the state officer or state employee using public resources in violation of this section constitutes a violation of this section". The evident purpose of this sentence is to create imputed liability for supervisors and others who "knowingly acquiesce" in a violation by a subordinate employee.

RCW 42.52.180 provides four types of exceptions to the general prohibition. The first of those four (RCW 42.52.180(2)(a)) relates to action taken by the members of an elected legislative body to express a collective decision supporting or opposing a ballot proposition. The second exception (RCW 42.52.180(2)(b)) provides that "it is not a violation of this section for an elected official to respond to an inquiry regarding a ballot proposition, to make incidental remarks concerning a ballot proposition in an official communication, or otherwise comment on a ballot proposition without an actual, measurable expenditure of public funds". The third exception (RCW 42.52.180(2)(c)) covers "[a]ctivities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office or agency". The fourth exception (RCW 42.52.180(d)) permits "[d]e minimis use of public facilities by state-wide elected officials and legislators incidental to the preparation or delivery of permissible communications, including written and verbal communications initiated by them of their views on ballot propositions that foreseeably may affect a matter that falls within their constitutional or statutory responsibilities".<sup>1</sup>

III. CASES, ATTORNEY GENERAL OPINIONS, AND INTERPRETIVE RULES

There is not yet a body of appellate case law interpreting RCW 42.52.180. However, the Executive Ethics Board is gradually developing a body of administrative interpretations. The Board's advisory opinions are available from the Board on request or through its website www.wa.gov/ethics/opinions.

Before the enactment of the current ethics code, state agencies were governed by RCW 42.17.130, which still applies to local governments. Because the language of RCW 42.52.180 is similar to RCW 42.17.130, the case law and opinions construing that statute may still be of relevance in construing the newer law.<sup>2</sup> There are three formal attorney general opinions construing RCW 42.17 generally, including RCW 42.17.130. Attorneys trying to interpret the current act should read them, but they should also check their analysis carefully against subsequent changes in the statutes interpreted.

The first of the three opinions is AGO 1973 No. 14, a long opinion answering some 23 questions about Initiative 276 (the initiative measure whose approval constituted the enactment of what is now RCW 42.17). This opinion is valuable primarily as a discussion of the historical background of the law. AGO 1975 No. 23 construes the language concerning "normal and regular conduct of the office or agency" and is worth reading since the same language appears in RCW 42.52.180. The new statute's additions clarify the law in this respect and are substantially in harmony with the analysis contained in AGO 1975 No. 23. Finally, AGO 1979 No. 3, construing RCW 42.17.130, concluded that the use of college or university facilities for political conventions, meetings, and candidates' forums did not violate the section, and prohibitions such as RCW 42.17.130 were not intended to cover "neutral public forum" uses of public property, such as the use of publicly owned facilities on a nondiscriminatory basis for political activities. Since the basic prohibition in RCW 42.52.180 is similar to that contained in RCW 42.17.130, this opinion is probably of continuing relevance in interpreting the new statute. My own view is that RCW 42.52.180, like the older statute, should be interpreted to allow the use of "neutral public forum" facilities when made available on a nondiscriminatory basis for political purposes.<sup>3</sup>

The Executive Ethics Board has adopted two rules interpreting RCW 42.52.180. WAC 292-110-020 defines the term "working hours". The definition of "facilities of an agency" in RCW 42.52.180(1) includes "employees of the agency during working hours", and the rule is intended to "flesh out" what the statutory phrase means. A second rule, WAC 292-110-030, defines

<sup>2</sup> There are only two reported cases construing RCW 42.17.130. King County Council v. Public Disclosure Commission, 93 Wn.2d 559, 561, 611 P.2d 1227 (1980), concluded that a county council could, as a matter of "normal and regular conduct", pass resolutions endorsing a ballot measure. City of Seattle v. State, 100 Wn.2d 232, 668 P.2d 1266 (1983), held that a city ordinance providing partial public funding for candidates in city elections did not violate RCW 42.17.130. However, subsequent legislation has rendered both of these opinions moot. Later amendments to RCW 42.17.130 explicitly permitted the conduct which the court allowed in King County Council, while the enactment of Initiative 134 (RCW 42.17.128) specifically prohibited local governments from using public funds to finance political campaigns for state or local office.

<sup>3</sup> Although AGO 1979 No. 3 does not explicitly discuss it, some public property constitutes traditional "public forum" areas in which citizens have a constitutional right to assemble and speak. The ethics statute was not intended to prohibit political rallies on the state capitol steps or parades on public streets.

the term “measurable expenditure”. RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) permits elected officials to respond to an inquiry regarding a ballot proposition so long as there is no “actual, measurable expenditure of public funds”; the rule interprets this phrase. These two rules are attached to this memo.

The Executive Ethics Board has issued several advisory opinions on the use of public facilities for campaign purposes. One of the early ones, Advisory Opinion, No. 96-10, concluded that an elected official who headed a state agency could, as a matter of “normal and regular conduct”, write a letter to agency employees at their home addresses explaining management policies, notwithstanding that the letter was written during an election campaign and that the letter might incidentally assist the official’s re-election effort. The opinion was based on a peculiar set of facts, and anyone seeking to extend its reasoning to other fact patterns should be very cautious.

EEB Advisory Opinion 00-08 concerned the use of a state officer’s or employee’s title in connection with an election campaign. The opinion concluded that the title is not a “tangible facility of an agency” but that any use of a title “must be accompanied by a disclaimer that the officers or employees are speaking only for themselves and not for their agencies.”

Two recent advisory opinions provide valuable guidance. EEB Advisory Opinion 02-02 answers a series of frequently asked questions on the use of state resources. Many of the key terms in RCW 42.52.180 are discussed. This opinion is geared to the personal use of public resources in general, and not specifically to the use of public resources for campaign purposes. EEB Advisory Opinion 02-04 discusses the use of state facilities, including electronic mail, to distribute newspaper articles and editorial opinions.

All of the Executive Ethics Board Advisory Opinions are available by mail from the Board, 2425 Bristol Court S.W., P.O. Box 40149, Olympia WA 98504-0149, or electronically at www.wa.gov/ethics/.

IV. ADDITIONAL COMMENTS ABOUT THE USE OF PUBLIC FACILITIES

This section of the memorandum is intended to draw together informal advice from a variety of sources (primarily generated in response to ballot measures in previous years), and to point to sources available for help in answering new questions which may arise. Although these answers are intended to be cautious and noncontroversial, the ethics laws are subject to interpretation like all legislation, and reasonable minds might differ on some details. This memo represents my own analysis and is not the official position of the office. Attorneys who are asked for advice about specific situations should check my answers against the current language of the statute, together with any current regulations and any existing or future interpretations of the statute by the agencies with jurisdiction.<sup>4</sup> Where there is disagreement, we should engage in further dialogue with an eye toward giving consistent advice.

<sup>4</sup> It would be wise to check for interpretive statements both by the Public Disclosure Commission (which continues to administer the provisions of RCW 42.17.130) and the relevant ethics board (see RCW 42.52.310-.380).

As noted above, the Executive Ethics Board has adopted some interpretive rules concerning RCW 42.52.180.<sup>5</sup> Given the language of the statute itself, and factoring in cases and opinions interpreting the older statute (RCW 42.17.130) to some extent, it is possible to make some general statements about political activities under RCW 42.52.180. I think the following activities are quite clearly prohibited by RCW 42.52.180:

1. Using work hours to solicit signatures for ballot propositions, to raise funds for or against such propositions, or to organize campaigns for or against such propositions. The prohibition similarly bars the use of work time to campaign for or against a candidate for public office.
2. Using public property to campaign for or against a candidate or ballot proposition, except that “neutral forum” public property otherwise open to public use may be used for campaigning also.
3. Using public facilities—office space, electronic mail and data processing equipment, word processing and copying facilities, paper, supplies, and any other publicly owned property—for campaigns for or against a ballot proposition, or for or against a candidate, whether during or after work hours.
4. Displaying political material in or on publicly owned vehicles.
5. Displaying or distributing campaign material on publicly owned or operated premises (other than “neutral open forum” property or “personal space” property as discussed below).
6. Using public supplies, equipment, or facilities to print, mail, or otherwise produce or distribute materials supporting or opposing any candidate or ballot proposition.
7. Using publicly owned facilities to instruct or urge public employees to campaign for or against a candidate or ballot proposition on their own time, or stating or implying that their job performance might be judged according to their willingness to use their own time on a campaign.

<sup>5</sup> The law also contemplates individual agency rules on ethics matters. RCW 42.52.200. Many agencies, including the Attorney General’s Office, have existing rules or policies which would be relevant to a particular inquiry.

8. Using public time and/or facilities to draft or pass a resolution by an appointed committee, board, or commission taking an official position for or against a pending ballot proposition, or endorsing or opposing a candidate for public office.<sup>6</sup>

Turning to the other side, the following appear to be conduct which is not prohibited by RCW 42.52.180:

1. An elected legislative body may collectively endorse or oppose a ballot measure if it meets the procedural requirements of RCW 42.52.180(2)(a).<sup>7</sup>
2. An elected official may make a statement in support of, or in opposition to, a ballot proposition at an open press conference or in response to a specific inquiry or may make incidental remarks concerning a ballot proposition in an official communication, so long as there is no actual, measurable expenditure of public funds. Again, note that this exception is limited to elected officials and does not, by its terms, extend to such “support” activity as using staff time or state facilities to prepare or distribute such a statement, at least if any “measurable expenditure” of public funds is involved.
3. Statewide elected officials and legislators may make de minimis use of public facilities to prepare or deliver communications giving their views on ballot propositions that foreseeably may affect a matter that falls within their constitutional or statutory responsibilities. Note that this exception is limited, again, to elected officials, and that it is related to the scope of each officer’s official duties. Thus, the Governor and the members of the Legislature may have authority to make statements on more issues than, say, the Secretary of State or the Insurance Commissioner, whose scope of operation is more narrowly defined.
4. Unless it is inconsistent with some other applicable law or regulation, a public employee is not prohibited from campaigning for or against a ballot proposition on the employee’s personal time.<sup>8</sup> It should be clear that the activity is the individual’s personal choice and is not tied to job performance in any way. For state employees, the term “personal time”

<sup>6</sup> Note that RCW 42.52.180(2)(a) and (b) relate exclusively to elected officials and members of an elected legislative body. Exception (d), relating to “de minimis use of public facilities”, also relates only to statewide elected officials and legislators. The only exception which is conceivably applicable to the activities to an appointed board or commission is exception (c), relating to “[a]ctivities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office or agency”. In light of the specific exception for elected boards, it seems unlikely that appointed boards would be held to have the same power by implication. An analysis of this issue would require a careful look at the powers and duties of the particular board, committee, or agency in question.

<sup>7</sup> Note that the body must be both elected and legislative in nature.

<sup>8</sup> Some state employees whose work is funded with federal funds may be subject to the restrictions of the Hatch Act, a federal statute which is quite different in scope from the state ethics law. Certain employees who work jointly for more than one entity, or who work on contracts for other governments, might be subject to another jurisdiction’s restrictions. It is beyond the scope of this memo to analyze federal law, or restrictions enacted by local governments or other states.

would ordinarily only include: (1) time outside the employee's normal work day; or (2) time when the employee is on vacation leave status or is using leave properly and lawfully accumulated and consistent with applicable statutes and personnel regulations; or (3) on unpaid leave status.<sup>9</sup> As noted earlier, the Executive Ethics Board has interpreted "working hours" in WAC 292-110-020.<sup>10</sup>

5. Public employees may contact fellow employees, away from the office, to circulate petitions or to solicit one another for funds, volunteers, and other activity for and against a ballot proposition, but only under circumstances which strictly avoid the use of office time and public property. Officers and employees would be wise to avoid soliciting subordinate employees because, under those circumstances, the subordinate employees may feel (no matter how carefully the campaign is conducted or the inquiry is phrased) that the superior is using improper influence.
6. Where public space is available on a nonrestricted basis to post signs, petitions, and advertisements, or to make speeches and hold meetings, public employees may use these "neutral public forum" spaces to express their own views, including their views on pending ballot propositions, assuming they are not otherwise violating RCW 42.52.180. However, it might well be a violation of the statute for public employees to use their positions to gain special advantage in the use of such "public forum" spaces, such as by signing up all the time for the use of a public auditorium before non-employees have had an equal opportunity to seek use of the same space, or by using their access to a public bulletin board to occupy the entire space with favored campaign material and leaving no space available for opposing material (or material relating to other matters).
7. Public agencies may conduct research into the likely results of the passage of a ballot proposition. Indeed, where the passage of the proposition would directly affect the agency's duties, an agency might be remiss for not conducting such research activity. However, it must be clear that the research is being conducted with the purpose of gathering the facts, is directly related to the ordinary conduct of the agency's business, and is not designed to support or oppose a candidate or ballot measure.<sup>11</sup> I recommend

<sup>9</sup> It is an obvious corollary that employees campaigning on their own personal time should avoid stating or implying that they are campaigning on behalf of the state or of a state agency.

<sup>10</sup> The rule recognizes that elected statewide officials do not have working hours as such. Thus, it is up to each elected officer to allocate time between campaigning and other activities. WAC 292-110-020(8). However, elected officers are still prohibited from using, or allowing the use of, staff time or office facilities for campaign purposes. Id.

<sup>11</sup> The Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) has wrestled with similar questions for many years, especially in the area of material generated by school districts concerning the possible effect of passage or defeat of a school district levy proposition. The principles developed by the PDC in response to these cases may prove instructive to other agencies. As of the writing of this memo, the PDC was awaiting a decision in a case challenging the constitutionality of RCW 42.17.130 and of the PDC's interpretation of this statute. The decision is expected to define the PDC's role as well as the substantive law concerning use of public facilities for political purposes. As noted earlier, the ethics boards are that agencies avoid conducting research or assembling statistical data which they expect to be requested for use in connection with a campaign, unless they are satisfied that they would have undertaken the same research or statistical efforts for independent reasons, such as planning for contingencies.

8. Public agencies and public employees may supply public records in response to requests made by the supporters or opponents of candidates or ballot propositions. An agency should treat all campaigns fairly and equitably in responding to requests for public records. This is especially sensitive and important, of course, in agencies headed by elected officers who are up for re-election in the near future.
9. Where two or more measures relate to the same subject, agencies may publish factual information showing the comparative effects of the measures, just as they could publish factual information showing the expected effect of a single measure. However, the agency may not use public facilities or property to favor one proposition over the other, any more than it could urge passage or defeat of both measures.

V. SOME HYPOTHETICAL QUESTIONS ABOUT CAMPAIGN ISSUES, AND SOME SUGGESTIONS ABOUT THE ANSWERS

Following are some hypothetical questions which might be asked about the ethics laws and some comments in response. Assistant attorneys general should remember that their role is to advise state agencies and not individual officers and employees. AAGs can tell individuals what the position of the Attorney General and the agency might be on an issue, but they should remind employees that our office does not provide personal advice and that our office would represent the agency and the public interest in any litigation. If there were a complaint filed with the Executive Ethics Board against a state employee, the employee should expect to secure personal counsel on the matter or appear without counsel. Employees have to make their own personal decisions concerning ethics law compliance. In questionable cases, they should think about conferring with private counsel.

1. I serve by appointment on a commission which governs a state agency. I serve part-time and receive no compensation except for attending commission meetings. The other day, I attended a fund raiser in support of an initiative measure which would, if approved, put the commission on a much more solid financial footing. I attended at my own expense and made a contribution to the campaign, which was properly reported. During the announcements, the announcer, specifically against my request, introduced me to the crowd as "Vice Chair of the X Commission". I quickly pointed out that I was attending as a private citizen. Was the use of my title a use of a "public facility or property"?

now developing their own case law and advisory opinions, and these also might provide answers to questions about public resources.

Unlike paper or ink or time, an officer's title cannot be measured or "expended" in any meaningful way. Knowledge that a particular candidate or ballot proposition is supported by "Commissioner X" may lend some weight or dignity to a campaign event or advertisement, or it may not. Thus, while it may be prudent to avoid using a position or title, primarily to avoid any implication that the agency or its officers are "officially" supporting a particular candidate or proposition, the mere identification of a person by stating his/her title or position would not seem to be a "use" of public facilities. However, it was wise for you to point out that you were attending in your private capacity in order to prevent any misunderstanding on that point.<sup>12</sup>

2. The head of my agency, Q, is an elected executive officer who is a candidate for public office again this year. A close friend wants to support Q both with financial contributions and volunteering time. I do not know the address or telephone number of Q's campaign office. Would it be all right to send an office voice-mail or e-mail to Q, passing along my friend's name and suggesting that Q forward this information to the campaign?

Remember that voice-mail and e-mail are both office property and facilities. While forwarding the information to Q seems a small thing, it involves both you and Q (Q involuntarily) in the use of office facilities for campaign activity. On your own time, take the steps to find out how to put your friend directly in touch with the campaign without using office facilities. If you don't want to be involved even that much, suggest that your friend contact the campaign directly. A third possibility would be to pass the information along using your own paper and stamp and Q's home address.

3. Everyone in my work unit is a strong opponent of Ballot Measure B. We have all been involved in the anti-B campaign, and we have been careful not to use either our state time or any agency facilities, such as paper, computers, or copy machines, in our campaign work. We need to have a campaign meeting next weekend, and the organizers are having trouble finding a place for the meeting. Our agency has a large conference room which is not ordinarily open to the public but which will not be in use during the weekend. Can we offer the use of the room for the campaign meeting?

Although office space is not "consumed" when used for a meeting (small amounts of heat and light notwithstanding), the use of a space not ordinarily available to the public leaves the definite impression that the campaign is benefiting from its use of a public space. The fact that your work unit is all involved in the campaign reinforces this unfortunate impression. In my opinion, using this particular space would violate RCW 42.52.180. If the conference room is generally open to the public, however, and is scheduled for the campaign on the same basis as anyone else could schedule it, the answer might be different. It still might be prudent to have the meeting somewhere else, just to avoid any question about misuse of public facilities.

4. I am the regional office manager for a state agency and I supervise about 50 employees. My close friend D is running for state senator. May I invite all my office to a Saturday morning event at my home where they can meet D and will have the opportunity to contribute to the campaign?

<sup>12</sup> As noted earlier, EEB Advisory Opinion 00-08 concluded that any employee's use of a title "must be accompanied by a disclaimer" that the employee is not speaking for the agency.

Extreme caution is advised. For the obvious points first, avoid the use of office space, office paper, e-mail, voicemail, or any other office facility for the invitations. Employee mailing lists are also public facilities which should not be used for campaign purposes. Perhaps you know the phone numbers and addresses by heart, or can use publicly available sources such as telephone and e-mail directories to get the necessary information. Even then, remember that you supervise all of these employees. Will one or more misunderstand why they are invited to a campaign fund raiser at your home? Will they conclude, no matter how you protest otherwise, that they stand to gain your favor if they support D, or to lose your favor if they don't? Even if this is not strictly a violation of RCW 42.52.180, do you want to raise these issues?

5. My co-worker and I have strongly different political philosophies. During the last presidential election campaign, she wore a large button promoting a candidate I find repugnant, and she placed the candidate's picture in her workstation next to the pictures of her husband and her cat. Would it be appropriate for me to ask our supervisor to ban such overt displays this year?

Ethical and policy considerations must always be balanced against free speech rights and the legitimate interest of any employee in expressing her views and in arranging her personal space. The courts and the ethics agencies have recognized that campaign buttons on clothing are a personal expression and do not violate the ethics statute.<sup>13</sup> The use of personal assigned space in a workstation probably meets the same requirement. The answer might be different if an employee were using publicly visible space, such as a wall, window, or reception desk, which could leave the impression that the campaign is favored by the agency or its leadership and is more than one employee's personal choice.

6. Initiative J would, if approved by the people, repeal the tax that supports 90% of my agency's activities. The Legislature might replace some of the money if the tax were repealed, but it is virtually certain that our agency's budget would be severely reduced. Can we use staff time and agency resources to assemble and publish a sheet that would just "show the facts"—that is, that enactment of Initiative J would effectively end all of the popular programs my agency is involved with?

As noted earlier, agencies can anticipate ballot measures by preparing contingency plans or by researching the possible effects of a measure for planning purposes. Your proposal goes considerably beyond that, though. The major flaw in your logic is to characterize as a "fact" your predicted outcome of the legislative session should the initiative be approved. The Legislature is legally free to replace the agency's funding, no matter how unlikely that outcome is. Therefore, it is simply not a "fact" that the agency's programs would be eliminated. It is only speculation. There seems little purpose for the agency to indulge in such speculation, except to influence the election results. Perhaps the agency could publish a true "fact sheet" which, for instance, lists the current programs administered by the agency with their current budget. Perhaps the material also could

VI. CONCLUSION

In closing, it is important to remember that the public is generally very sensitive to the use of public facilities or property on ballot propositions and takes accusations of violations very seriously. Officers and employees who try to bump up against the "line" that divides lawful from unlawful conduct in this area may find, even if their conduct is eventually judged lawful, that their questionable activity has incited a public backlash against the very position they were attempting to advocate. As a result, public employees should walk a careful line to assure that the public is fully and adequately informed about the consequences of voting on a particular measure, without making unlawful use of public money or property to influence the result of the vote. State agencies and officers should consult closely with legal counsel on all activities relating to matters before the voters, and they should use utmost skill and care in expressing any comments on such matters.

Violations of RCW 42.52 by executive branch employees are now within the jurisdiction of the Executive Ethics Board. Employees with questions in this area should contact:

RCW 42.52.180

RCW 42.52.180 Use of public resources for political campaigns. (1) No state officer or state employee may use or authorize the use of facilities of an agency, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting a campaign for election of a person to an office or for the promotion of or opposition to a ballot proposition. Knowing acquiescence by a person with authority to direct, control, or influence the actions of the state officer or state employee using public resources in violation of this section constitutes a violation of this section. Facilities of an agency include, but are not limited to, use of stationery, postage, machines, and equipment, use of state employees of the agency during working hours, vehicles, office space, publications of the agency, and clientele lists of persons served by the agency.

(2) This section shall not apply to the following activities:

(a) Action taken at an open public meeting by members of an elected legislative body to express a collective decision, or to actually vote upon a motion, proposal, resolution, order, or ordinance, or to support or oppose a ballot proposition as long as (i) required notice of the meeting includes the title and number of the ballot proposition, and (ii) members of the legislative body or members of the public are afforded an approximately equal opportunity for the expression of an opposing view;

(b) A statement by an elected official in support of or in opposition to any ballot proposition at an open press conference or in response to a specific inquiry. For the purposes of this subsection, it is not a violation of this section for an elected official to respond to an inquiry regarding a ballot proposition, to make incidental remarks concerning a ballot proposition in an official communication, or otherwise comment on a ballot proposition without an actual, measurable expenditure of public funds. The ethics boards shall adopt by rule a definition of measurable expenditure;

(c) Activities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office or agency; and

(d) De minimis use of public facilities by state-wide elected officials and legislators incidental to the preparation or delivery of permissible communications, including written and verbal communications initiated by them of their views on ballot propositions that foreseeably may affect a matter that falls within their constitutional or statutory responsibilities.

(3) As to state officers and employees, this section operates to the exclusion of RCW 42.17.130. [1995 c 397 § 30; 1994 c 154 § 118.]

WAC 292-110-020

WAC 292-110-020 Working hours. (1) RCW 42.52.180(1) provides that no state officer or state employee may use or authorize the use of facilities of an agency, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting a campaign for election of a person to an office or for the promotion of or opposition to a ballot proposition. Facilities of an agency includes use of state officers or state employees during working hours. The purpose of the rule is to define the term "working hours" for officers and employees of the executive branch of state government. The prohibition in RCW 42.52.180(1) only applies during working hours. Nothing in RCW 42.52.180(1) or this rule prohibits a state officer or state employee from assisting in a campaign during non-working hours. An officer or employee who assists in a campaign during non-working hours may not use any facilities of an agency.

(2) Some state officers and state employees occupy positions that have fixed schedules with the same beginning and ending times. For officers and employees with fixed schedules, working hours are the hours between the starting and ending times of their positions. Officers and employees with fixed schedules may not assist in a campaign during these fixed working hours, unless they are on a lunch break under section four of this rule or on annual leave under section five of this rule.

Example 1: An employee works for an agency open to the public during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The employee is in a position with a fixed schedule of Monday through Friday 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 8:00 a.m. or after 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday or on Saturday or Sunday.

Example 2: An employee works for an agency open to the public during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Although the agency is open during the hours 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., the employee is in a position with a fixed schedule of Monday through Thursday 3:00 p.m. through 12:00 a.m. The employee's working hours are 3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 3:00 p.m. or after 12:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday or anytime on Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

(3) Some state officers and state employees occupy positions that do not have fixed schedules with the same starting and ending times. For officers and employees who do not have fixed schedules, working hours are defined as either:

(a) The hours set forth in any policy on working hours adopted by an agency. Agencies have flexibility in determining working hours for the officers and employees to meet their unique needs so long as the time considered to be working hours is clearly established. If an agency does not adopt a working hours policy, working hours shall be 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday when state agencies are generally open to the public; or

(b) The work schedule for an officer or employee approved by the agency, if it is different from the agency policy or, if the agency has not adopted a policy, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Example 3: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Although the agency is open to the public at these times, the work of the agency goes on twenty-four hours a day. The agency has adopted a working hours policy that divides working hours into three shifts: the day shift (8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.); swing shift (3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.) and midnight shift (12:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m.). An employee without a fixed schedule is assigned to the swing shift (3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.) Monday through Friday. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 3:00 p.m. and sometimes after 3:00 p.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 12:00 a.m. This employee's working hours are 3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 3:00 p.m. or after 12:00 a.m. Monday through Friday or on Saturday or Sunday.

Example 4: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 8:00 a.m. or after 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, or on Saturday or Sunday.

Example 5: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Although the agency is open to the public at these times, the work of the agency goes on twenty-four hours a day. The agency has adopted a working hours policy that divides working hours into three shifts: the day shift (8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.); swing shift (3:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.) and midnight shift (12:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m.). An employee without a fixed schedule is assigned to the day shift (8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.) Monday through Friday. However, the agency has approved a different work schedule for this employee. Instead of the usual day shift of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., the employee works 7:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule the employee, sometimes comes to work before 7:00 a.m. and sometimes after 7:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 4:00 p.m. This employee's working hours are 7:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The employee may not assist in a campaign during these hours unless the employee is on a lunch break or on annual leave. The employee may assist in a campaign before 7:00 a.m. or after 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, or on Saturday or Sunday.

(4) Working hours do not include state legal holidays unless the officer's or employee's work schedule requires the officer or employee to work on a state legal holiday.

(5) Working hours do not include the time approved and designated for an officer's or employee's lunch break. A lunch break is between 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m., unless the agency has designated a different time in a working hours policy or has approved a different lunch break as part of an officer's or employee's work schedule. If an officer or employee engages in campaign activity during the lunch break, the officer or employee may not make use of any of the facilities of the agency.

Example 6: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday with a lunch break between 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m. The employee may assist in a campaign during the employee's lunch break between 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m.

(6) Working hours do not include the time in official leave status if the leave has received advance documented or written authorization. An officer or employee on leave may assist in a campaign.

Example 7: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. On Friday the employee receives advance written authorization to be on leave for five days, Monday through Friday of the next week. The employee may assist in a campaign during this leave.

Example 8: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. In this agency employees without fixed schedules take leave during a month and then get written authorization for the leave at the end of the month. An employee takes leave

Monday through Friday and assists in a campaign. At the end of the month the employee obtains written authorization for the leave. The employee has assisted in a campaign during working hours since the employee did not obtain written authorization prior to taking leave to assist in a campaign. To assist in a campaign while on leave, the employee must obtain written authorization prior to going on leave.

(7) The definition of working hours also includes any time an officer or employee is actually working. For an officer or employee with a fixed schedule, working hours includes overtime when the officer or employee is working additional hours other than those in the fixed schedule. For an officer or employee without a fixed schedule, working hours include any time the officer or employee is working.

Example 9: An employee works for an agency that is open to the public 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The agency has not adopted a policy on working hours. An employee without a fixed schedule usually works 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Since the employee does not have a fixed schedule, the employee sometimes comes to work before 8:00 a.m. and sometimes after 8:00 a.m. Similarly, the employee may leave work before or after 5:00 p.m. Since the agency has not adopted a policy on working hours, this employee's working hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. On a Monday the employee works from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Even though the employee's working hours are 8:00 to 5:00 the time spent working between 5:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. are working hours because the employee is working for the agency during this time.

(8) The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of public lands, and the insurance commissioner are state officers in the executive branch subject to RCW 42.52.180. These officers are elected to office and hold office for a term of four years and until their successors are elected and qualified. Since these officers are elected to a term of office, they do not have working hours and may assist in a campaign at any time. However, if these officers do assist in a campaign, they may not make use of any facilities of an agency except as provided in RCW 42.52.180(2).

[Statutory Authority: RCW 42.52.180(1) and 42.52.360(2)(b). 96-22-030, § 292-110-020, filed 10/30/96, effective 11/30/96.]

WAC 292-110-030

WAC 292-110-030 Measurable expenditure. (1) RCW 42.52.180(1) provides that no state officer or state employee may use or authorize the use of facilities of an agency, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of assisting a campaign for election of a person to an office or for the promotion of or opposition to a ballot proposition. Facilities of an agency include, but are not limited to, use of stationery, postage, machines and equipment, use of state employees during working hours, vehicles, office space, publications of the agency, and clientele lists of persons served by the agency.

(2) RCW 42.52.180(2) sets forth exceptions to the prohibition in RCW 42.52.180(1). The exceptions include a statement by an elected official in support of or in opposition to any ballot proposition at an open press conference or in response to a specific inquiry without an actual measurable expenditure of public funds (RCW 42.52.180(2)(b)); activities that are part of the normal and regular conduct of the office (RCW 42.52.180(2)(c)); and de minimis use of public facilities by state-wide elected officials incidental to the preparation or delivery of permissible communications initiated by the official regarding the official's views on a ballot proposition that may foreseeably affect a matter that falls within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities (RCW 42.52.180(2)(d)).

(3) Elected officials regularly expend public funds to respond to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions. RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) permits elected officials to respond to such inquiries regarding ballot propositions without an actual measurable expenditure of public funds. For purposes of RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) measurable expenditure means an expenditure or separately identifiable cost or specific portion of a cost incurred by the agency beyond the normal and regular expenditures or costs incurred by the agency in responding to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions.

Example 1: A state-wide elected official conducts a press conference in state office space. During the conference the official is asked about a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. The official replies to the question explaining his or her opinion on the ballot proposition and the reason for the opinion. It is not an ethical violation to reply to such an inquiry. The use of state office space, during the time the official answers the question about the ballot proposition, does not result in a measurable expenditure of public funds. This is because the expenditure or cost of the office space during this period is not a separately identifiable cost.

Example 2: A state-wide elected official receives a letter from a constituent asking for the official's position on a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. The official replies by letter explaining his or her opinion on the ballot proposition and the reason for the opinion. In the course of preparing the reply the official has the assistance of staff and uses office space, equipment, stationery and postage. It is not an ethical violation to reply to such an inquiry. There is no measurable expenditure of public funds because the agency has not incurred a cost beyond the normal and regular costs incurred by the agency in responding to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions.

Example 3: A state-wide elected official received a letter from a constituent asking for the official's position on a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. The official replies by letter explaining his or her opinion on the ballot proposition and the reason for the opinion. In the course of preparing the reply the official has the assistance of staff and uses office space, equipment, stationery and postage. The official sends copies of the reply to other individuals on the agency mailing list. This is an ethical violation. While it is permissible to reply to the constituent who inquired about the official's position (Example 1), it is improper to send copies of the response to others. There is a measurable expenditure of public funds because the cost of the paper and postage for the additional copies is a separate identifiable cost beyond the normal and regular costs incurred by the agency in responding to inquiries from the media, constituents and other persons on matters unrelated to ballot propositions.

Example 4: A state-wide elected official writes a letter to the editor of a newspaper stating the official's position on a ballot proposition. The subject of the ballot proposition does not fall within the normal and regular conduct of the official's agency nor within the official's constitutional or statutory responsibilities. In the course of preparing the letter the official has the assistance of staff and uses office space, equipment, stationery and postage. This is an ethical violation. The official has used the facilities of the agency and the exception in RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) does not apply because the official is not responding to an inquiry.

[Statutory Authority: RCW 42.52.180(2)(b) and 42.52.360(2)(b). 96-22-029, § 292-110-030, filed 10/30/96, effective 11/30/96.]
