SAI 3.0 Funding

Precollege

In SAI 3.0 there are no points awarded for the completion of a precollege course or sequence. Rather, prior precollege coursework is used to award an extra point after a student successfully completes a college-level math or communication course.

Precollege English (College-Ready English Points)

A point is awarded after the college-level English/Communication point is earned for students who passed any precollege reading, writing, or communication class in the current or prior year. The extra point based on prior precollege course enrollment can only be earned one time.

College-level English/Communication: The college-level English/Communication is a new point in SAI 3.0. This point reflects the system focus on college-level key milestone course attainment and serves the extra point signifier for students coming into college-level through developmental and basic education courses. The point is awarded for successful completion of ENGL& 101 OR another college-level communication course that counts towards a professional-technical degree's communication requirement.

First 15 credits

No change to the point in SAI 3.0. A point is awarded when a student earns 15 cumulative college-level credits. This point can only be earned one time.
