

The Washington Student Success Center (WASSC) supports the state's 34 community and technical colleges with services that address guided pathways planning and implementation. Colleges are undertaking this work to close equity gaps in four areas: students' access and educational aspirations, college completion, transfer to four-year institutions with junior status, and attainment of jobs with value in the labor market.

WASSC offers guided pathways guidance and support, including coaching, based on each college's particular needs and goals. In addition, the Center provides data, updates colleges on key research, and advocates for policy on behalf of all 34 Washington community and technical colleges.
