FAQs

May I contribute to both the SBVIP and DCP plans?

Yes, you may contribute to the SBVIP or DCP or both. The contribution limits for each plan are not aggregated, so you may contribute up to the maximum for each plan.

What are the differences between the plans?

As mentioned, you may contribute to either or both plans. The plan or plans you select should depend on your individual circumstances including your eligibility for catch-up contributions, the availability of loans, potential early withdrawal tax penalties, and the fees charged by each plan.

What are the withdrawal options for each plan?

Both the SBVIP and DCP plans offer a wide range of withdrawal choices including lifetime annuities and lump-sum withdrawals. To get more information on the specific withdrawal options available under each plan, contact TIAA for the SBVIP and the Washington State Department of Retirement Systems for the DCP.

Are there differences in the investment options available under the SBVIP and WA DCP?

Yes, the investment choices under the two plans are different and that's a factor you'll want to consider when making your decision. You can see the investments by visiting each plan's website where you'll find fund descriptions, the latest performance, and fee information.

You'll also want to consider the convenience of having your retirement accumulations with a single provider. For example, if you participate in the State Board Retirement Plan (SBRP), you'll receive a consolidated statement showing both your SBRP and SBVIP accumulations. And because the investment funds are identical in the SBRP and SBVIP, you may find it easier to manage your accounts. If you're in PERS or TRS and participate in DCP, you can access all of your plans with single sign-on. If you're in Plan 3 and DCP, you'll receive a consolidated statement showing both your DCP and Plan 3 investments. If you only participate in DCP, you can access your investments directly from the recordkeeper website. Both can be found at drs.wa.gov/login

Distributions from 403(b) plans before age 59½, severance from employment, death, or disability may be prohibited, limited, and/or subject to substantial tax penalties. Different restrictions may apply to other types of plans.
